The fourteenth-century Terworm castle is a hidden gem between Heerlen and Voerendaal. It is unbelievable how green this small area between the cities and the highways is. Almost from one moment to the next you find yourself in a small, but dense and green forest, where the Geleenbeek sparkles and the birds nest. This idyllic forest then gives way to a breathtaking courtyard garden, where the majestic Terworm Castle shows off as the icing on the cake. It seems like you have entered a fairy tale. Can't get enough of castles? Then follow the red posts to Cortenbach Castle and the Eyckholt castle ruins.
