With its robust walls and striking towers, the fourteenth-century Mheer Castle is the main eye-catcher of the village. However, if you continue walking from this village near Maastricht, you will see many more beautiful things on the route. What about the densely overgrown Hoogbos, the Belgian castle Altenbroek or the graceful St. Brigida Church in Noorbeek? Both in Mheer and Noorbeek you can park your car well and there are plenty of nice restaurants to enjoy a delicious cup of coffee. You follow this walking route via the blue posts.
